

Remarkable Employer Certification for XEOS Imaging

The company is among the first recipients of this new certification that's been launched in Quebec City on February 24th.

This program aims at acknowledging companies which are using the best practices in human resources management.

Companies are being evaluated by their own employees through an opinion poll covering several criteria (communications, working conditions, quality of life, training, etc).

This certification, issued by the Office of normalization of Quebec, will allow XEOS Imaging to keep and develop a successful team with remarkable values.

New Partnership with the Industrial Optical Chair of Laval University

Leader in the photonic field for more than 40 years, Quebec City's Laval University has just inaugurated an industrial chair in optical conception.

This chair is associated with the Center of optic photonics and laser, considered as being the largest research center in photonics in Canada.

XEOS Imaging is proud to appear among the financial partners of this chair. The partners involved will contribute to this initiative to bring innovation in the optics field.
